KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS WILL DEDICATE THEIR SERVICE FLAG

Exercises in Lyceum Sunday Afternoon at 3 O'clock

GOOD SPEAKERS TO BE PRESENT

Charleroi Council No. 956, Knights of Columbus will dedicate their service flag Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock in the Lyceum. In order that this emblem may be dedicated with appropriate exercises and due solemnity a splendid program has been prepared and a cordial invitation has been extended to the public generally to be present at that hour to take part as far as possible in the various numbers and to listen to the splendid addresses which will be given by the speakers who have been invited to be present.

Thirty-three members from Charleroi Council offered their services to the government during the great war in Europe, and the exercises tomorrow afternoon will not only be to dedicate this flag, but to honor these men, who were willing to offer all they possessed that the principles for which the United States assembled vast armies might prevail. The program as arranged by the committee in charge is as follows

Anthem—America Mrs. Bertha Kleist accompanist.

Introductory remarks—Brother Thomas P. Sloan.

Violin Solo—Miss Millie Newton, Fred Lindeauer, accompanist.

Dedication of flag—Brother Tim F. Dunn of Pittsburg.

Solo—Louis Brusa.

Ideals of Columbianism—Brother Thomas F. Garrahan of Pittsburg.

Anthem—Star Spangled Banner.

SAYS LUTTON WILL BE A CANDIDATE

The story prevails in Washington that R. G. Lutton, former Sheriff of thecounty will announce his candidacy for County Treasurer within a few days. It is said that Lutton has been debating whether to announce for Treasurer or Commissioner, finally deciding to announce for the former office. James P. Castner of Donora is the only avowed candidate so far officially announced, but it is believed that Charleroi will have a candidate and if Lutton finally decides to enter the lists it will make the contest one of unusual interest. Lutton is well known throughout the county and has a host of friends and will add an element of uncertainty to the outcome of this campaign.

The price of an airplane trip from New York to Philadelphia has been fixed at $15, which is some improvement on that little fifteen minute joy-ride at Atlantic City at a dollar a minute.

OPPOSING CHARTERS FOR ALIEN SOCIETIES

A movement to oppose the granting of charters to organizations and societies whose names or titles are alien was started on Thursday in Pittsburg by Attorney Frank I. Gosser. He filed exceptions to granting charters to two foreign societies which applied before Judge Carnahan in Common Pleas Court. The objections stated these societies conducted their business in a foreign tongue and should have no corporate rights conferred upon them unless they change their names and conduct their business in the English language.

WANTS TO IMPROVE EXPRESS SITUATION

An inadvertant omission was made in the account of the Business Men's Association banquet at the Elks Home Thursday night. This omission was the address made by Mr. Dallas of the American Railways Express Company who spoke on the improvement of service, both as it referred to the shipper and to the express company. Mr. Dallas referred to the large number of packages lost in transit as well as to the money losses to the company by reason of being compelled to reimburse shippers for these losses.

He asked the business men and all those who use the express service to improve on their packing and marking packages which is highly important if the safety of the package is to be guarded. Insufficient container careless packing loose tying, and bad marking all contribute their share to piling up the thousands of lost packages which come to the express companies every month, and which the company is powerless to prevent. Mr. Dallas asked for an improvement of these conditions so far as they related to any shippers in Charleroi, promising at the same time a determined effort on the part of thecompany a nd its employees to improve their part of the service in the way of handling and delivering goods consigned to their care.

Mrs. Lee Honsaker

Mrs. Fanny Honsaker, wife of Lee Honsaker of 216 Luella avenue, died at the home of her mother Mrs. Ash Smith, West Brownsville, Friday morning, Feb. 14 at 6:15 o'clock, aged 27 years, after a long illness. She is survived by her husband and an infant son aged five months, her mother, three brothers and two sisters, one of whom is Mrs. W. A. Murphy of Charleroi. Funeral services Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock, with interment in Bridgeport cemetery, South Brownsville.

Henry Cervi.

Henry, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Fiorido Cervi, died Friday night at 11:15 o'clock, aged 22 months. Funeral services will be held on Monday next at 2 o'clock p. m., interment in Charleroi cemetery.

CIRCLE ENJOYS AN INTERESTING PROGRAM

Chautauqua Circle met Friday evening at the home of Mrs. Pfleghardt and a very pleasant time was spent by the members. The subject for study was "England's Self Governing Colonies, and Canada, Australia and New Zealand were considered. It was agreed that Cecil Rhodes was the greatest empire builder of his day, and that the Boer war in South Africa should never have occurred, but that the trouble should have been arbitrated. A musical program followed the discussion. For next meeting a special program has been prepared and the proposed League of Nations as outlined by President Wilson will be discussed.

REV. J. R. BURSON CHOSEN AS LEADER

The foundation of the organization through which the new era movement of the Presbyterian church will be carried out in the Pittsburg Presbytery was laid out by the Rev. Dr. A. M. Buchanan, secretary of the Presbyterian New Era Committee on Friday, when he selected the chairmen of the groups into which the Presbytery has been divided.

This section of the Monongahela valley has been divided into two groups, with Group Sixteen including Monongahela, Courtney, Finleyville, Mingo and Fairview churches, and Rev. William F. McKee of Monongahela as chairman.

Group Seventeen, with Rev. John R. Burson as chairman, will have the First, Washington Avenue and the Charleroi French churches and the Presbyterian church at Donora in its jurisdiction.

The war did it for the Prohibition candidate for President in 1916 received only 214,340 votes.

INTERESTING BENTLEYVILLE CASE IS PUT OFF UNTIL MONDAY

Prominent Physician Prosecutor Against Resident of That Town

CASE MAY BE COMPROMISED

The case against Joseph E. Scott of Bentleyville set for trial in criminal court at Washington for Friday and which has attracted considerable attention in the Bentleyville district was continued by agreement until next Monday, after the case had been called for trial before Judge Brownson. It was intimated the defendant will plead guilty to the charge of felonious assault and battery.

The deendant and Dr. A. N. Booth the private prosecutor, are well known in the Bentleyville community. The court room was crowded with witnesses and others interested in the case. The ury was selected before a continuance was asked for.

The assault which it is alleged the defendant made on Dr. Booth, occurred on the night of November 11, 1918, during the peace celebration at Bentleyville, but the real cause of the trouble is said to date back several months. On January 8, 1918, Mrs. Elizabeth Scott wife of Joe Scott, the defendant, was granted a divorce from her husband on the grounds of cruel and barbarous treatment. After Mrs. Scott filed her libel in divorce Scott filed an answer charging his wife with infidelity, but did not name any man. On the day set by the commissioner to take testimony counsel for Scott withdrew from the case and the respondent failed to establish the charges against his wife.

It appears that Dr. Booth was one of the witnesses for Mrs. Scott and gave testimony in her behalf. It is alleged that ever since that time Scott has refused to speak to Dr. Booth. It is averred that on the night of the peace celebration Scott who is a member of the Home defense police, with some companions came to Charleroi, where it is alleged they secured some liquor. Returning to Bentleyville Scott met Dr. Booth in a restaurant, and walking up to him struck him over thehead with a bottle of whiskey. If thecase come up for trial next Monday the commonwealth will make a more definite statement.

SERVICES TO CONTINUE DURING NEXT WEEK

The revival services at the First M. E. church will be continued every evening during the week except Saturday evening. A. H. Bosson, t he leader of the chorus choir, invites those who will, to come and help in the singing. The pastors and members of other churches have b een extended a cordial invitation to attend these services, where such attendance will not take them away from their own services.

LOCALS LOSE TO DUQUESNE HIGH

Friday evening the local high school five was defeated by the Duquesne high team on the floor of the latter by a score of 30 to 23. One reason for the defeat of the Charleroi team was the absence of Wagner from their line-up who has been on the sick list for some time and who was unable to take part in the game last night. He is one of the local's stand-bys, and his absence from the game greatly weakened their strength.

The floor was also a factor which contributed to the downfall of Charleroi, in that it was very slippery, and while it affected Duquesne somewhat, they were more accustomed to conditions, which gave them an advantage, which although slight as it may have been materially assisted in the downfall of their opponents.

The first quarter ended with the score in favor of Charleroi, 9 to 5, but during the second period Duquesne overcame this lead when the score stood 18-15 in their favor. In the second quarter Weaver and Lowstuter featured for Charleroi, while Evans was the star for Duquesne. Each of the former secured two baskets in this frame, while Evans had four.

During the third quarter Weaver, Evans and Svicek starred, this period ending with Duquesne still on the long end, the score being 23-19. The final score was 30-23 in favor of Duquesne. Foul shooting on the part of both teams was below par, although Duquesne was ashade better than Charleroi. The line-up:

Charleroi—23		Duquesne—30
Glunt Capt	F	Evans
Weaver	F	Svicek
Lowstuter	C	Fullerton
Brown	G	Estep
Schmieler	G	Prosky

Substitutions, none. Fouls, Glunt 4 out of 14; Weaver 3 out of 7; Evans 4 out of 13; Prosky 4 out of 9. Field goals, Glunt, Weaver 4, Lowstuter 2, Schmieler, Evans 6, Svicek 4, Fullerton. Feferee, Slack.

Miss Anna Dittman of Fallowfield avenue, entertained the operators of the Charleroi telephone company at her home Friday evening. Music and games furnished the diversions of the evening, after which lunch was served. Mrs. P. J. Dittman was the hostess.

WESTMORELAND BANKS SHOW PROSPERITY

Figures that have been compiled on the banking business in Westmoreland county for 1918 show a remarkable state of prosperity. No new banks were chartered during the year and thecapital of the banks engaged in business remains the same as last year, $4,870,000. Surplus and undivided profits grew from $5,755,315.83 in 1917 to $5,946,306.84 in 1918.

MARTIN DIES' FAREWELL

The farewell address of Representative Martin Dies of Texas resembles that of Washington at least in its opposition to entanglements in European affairs, and it has all the old-fashioned democratic ring in its warnings against new governmental tendencies in a socialistic direction. In these changeful times of new and big problems crowding upon each other's heels it may not be possible to find satisfactory solution in theold way. Nevertheless the utterances of this representative of the old view have something in them suggestive of a wholesome north wind, clear and cold, blowing into a heavy atmosphere of fog. Mr. Dies, who is voluntarily retiring from Congress after ten years of service, says he wishes the farmers and the taxpayers "might have a return of the old Democratic and Republican theory that government is not created to support thepeople but is a creature to be supported by the people," and goes on to say:

"The great mistake we are making my friends, here now is that we are practising hypocrisy upon the people. We are leading them to believe that the Government can support them and lift them by their boot straps out of their financial difficulties when ,as honest men, we should say to them that all the Government can do is to protect their life and their liberty and tax them to support the Government.

"You have taken the fairest and best government ever known among men and are making it into the most despicable socialism. You took the American people at a time when they believed they could support themselves and their Government, and you are teaching them hour by hour and day by day to expect that their government shall support them. Instead of telling our magnificent army when the boys are coming back from France and are being demobilized, to go back to their jobs and engage in their former industries, you areleading them to believe that the Governmentshall take it upon itself as a duty to support them."

There was a time when the majority of Democrats would have regarded this as a perfectly sound view and if the majority does not now why not? Is it because the new problems are too big to be disposed of by the old methods or because thepeople have fallen into thehabit of asking for Federal government assistance when none is needed? In the opinion of Martin Dies some of the new problems are beyond our sphere and should be let alone. "We are casting the lot of the people of America the peace and destinies of our country," he says, "into the notchpotch of the quarrels and poverty and woe and destruction of Europe." A properly managed league of nations to prvent war should not involve any such entanglements and costs. In any event the march of Federal socialism and paternalism at home be the more threatening of the two clouds overhanging the future.

MORE HOMES NEEDED

At the Business Men's Association banquet Thursday evening the general need of more home building was emphasized by one of the speakers. He told of a lumberman in a convention representing this interest, telling his fellow dealers of his determination to build houses and then sell them. This lumberman said they ought to have faith in their own business: they were urging people to buy and build, and he thought it a good plan to show faith in the future by beginning to build a certain number of houses at once.

The need of additional houses in Charleroi is most acute at the present time. Scarcely a day passes but what people are visiting the various real estate agencies, as well as the newspaper offices hunting rooms for light housekeeping or a suitable home in which to live. This demand is not sporadic; it is with us from day to day, and there appears to be a constant stream of people coming into our town, all bent on the same mission but the larger majority of them being compelled to turn away because they cannot be accommodated.

One of the functions of a Business Men's Association or any commercial organization is to promote the welfare of its particular community and the local association could not further the interests of Charleroi any better than by advocating the erection of more homes in this town. The demand is here but the supply is inadequate. Our town cannot grow if we have no place to put the people—therefore of what good is industrial expansion if we cannot house the workmen and the various employes who necessarily are an important part of such undertakings. The Association can find plenty of work at hand if it wishes to become active and promote the best interests of the town.

BADGES FOR WORKERS

The report that workers in the coming Victory Liberty Loan campaign will receive medals made from captured cannon conflicts with earlier tidings from Washington that these same captured cannon are to be distributed among towns and cities and that so many have filed requests for them that there are not enough to go around. One cannon to be sure, would make a large number of medals and very likely more than one community would becheerfully willing to relinquish its cannon to help on enthusiasm for a Liberty Loan campaign that is none the less important because the fighting is over. Unfortunately the cost is not. Cannon, however, are not the only captured material available for the purpose.

Mme. Schmimmer, known in this country as the captain of theFord "peace ship" was appointed Hungarian Ambassador to Switzerland several months ago. Her home government has now recalled her, according to a dispatch from Budapest, "because she failed to perform the duties of the office satisfactorily." Whether she talked too much and usefully employed herself too little is not stated. In view of her country's present disturbances, however, it must be admitted that her job was not an easy one.

The woman suffrage association headed by Mrs. John O. Miller denounces the "picket" ladies who burn the President's speeches, but no doubt the wild sisters will come back with the claim that they are the real "it."

A national debt has an unpleasant sound but in reality it is a national blessing as Secretary Glass explains. In lending seventeen billions to Uncle Sam for war purposes the American people have become richer than before

Quaint Packing of Eggs.

In many Korean towns one sees piles of eggs outside the shops, done up in straw rolls. This is the Korean method of packing eggs There are, as a rule, ten eggs in a roll, and the straw casing is so cleverly twisted and so strongly woven that it can be moved without fear of the eggs falling out. A native will lift up a roll, place it across his shoulders and march away, and though the roll may sway dangerously to and fro, its contents always remain intact.

FATAL ACCIDENT ON MONESSEN ROAD

John Terpack, aged 28 years, was fatally injured and five children more or less injured, when an automobile in which they were riding and which was being driven by Samuel Labash crashed into a building in Webster last Tuesday night. The party was on their way from Monessen to Donora att hetime and it is presumed that the driver lost control of the machine ran into thecorner of a building which upset the machine. Terpack had his skull fractured and was taken to the Monongahela hospital as well as one of the children which was badly cut aboutthe head. Terpack died shortly after reaching the hospital. The other occupants of the car were taken to their homes and all of them are suffering from injuries.

MOTOR TRUCK IS BADLY DAMAGED

A motor truck of the Cudahy Packing company, was badly damaged by fire at 9 o'clock this morning while in front of the VanVoorhis & Kinder garage. At the time the fire occurred the driver was filling the tank on the truck with gasoline from the supply station in front of the garage. The motor was running at the time when suddenly there was an explosion and in an instant the machine was in flames. The fire company was summoned and subdued the flames but not before the machine had been put of of commission. The casing on the gas pump at the garage was badly blistered by the fire.

FORERUNNER OF THE BICYCLE

Velocipede Was Considered a Swift-Moving Vehicle When First Introduced Into This Country.

The velocipede made its appearance in Washington 50 years ago, much having been heard of this new device, which had developed a veritable fever in France. In an article in the Washington Star of November 20, 1868, it was noted that the use of this vehicle had been "brought to such perfection that it is claimed 20 miles an hour has been made with it." The Star said:

"Lately the velocipede has been introduced in this country, and our young Americans, who at one time had the boxing mania, followed by the baseball mania, are now going strong on the velocipede, and it will doubtless have its run all over the country. Graham, the carriage dealer on D street between 8th and 9th, has just imported a first-class velocipede, and it is an object of great attraction at his establishment. It is a smart, stylish-looking affair, but very simple in its working. It can be run most rapidly with two wheels, but it is convertible to a three-wheeler. The working of it brings in play most of the muscles of the body, and it is said to be very healthful. From the facility with which it is steered or turned, it can be used on any sidewalk or gravel walk. The gravel walks of the Smithsonian would be just the thing for velocipeders. The style of velocipede to be seen at Graham's is the latest French style, introduced in this country by the Hanlon brothers, gymnasts."

TENNYSON NOT IDEAL HOST

Great Artist Who Was to Paint Portrait of Laureate Got Somewhat Dubious Reception.

Here is a tale of Tennyson told by Sir Hubert von Herkomer, R. A., who once went to Freshwater for the purpose of getting sittings for a portrait of the laureate:

"Getting to the station rather late, I left my things there, not knowing what sort of reception I might get. After I had been received by Mr. Hallam Tennyson, the present Lord Tennyson, old Tennyson came shuffling in—he had a shuffling way of walking because he was near-sighted—and shook hands with me.

"'I hate your coming,' he said; 'I cannot abide sitting.'

"That did not seem very promising. However, after he had conversed for some time he said:

"'Where are your things?'

"I explained, and thereupon he got up, rang the bell, and told a servant to fetch my luggage.

"'You had better put up here,' he said.

"I felt I was getting along. At eleven o'clock I went to my room, still wondering whether I would succeed in my mission or not. Shortly afterward there came a rap at the door and I said, 'Come in,' turned around and saw Tennyson standing in the door. He said:

"'I believe you are honest. Good night,' and thereupon departed.

"It was his way of making amends for the rather dubious way in which he had first met me."

An Indian legend tells us that when men first came on earth they had no fire. The Great Spirit taught them how to do many things; he taught them how to get food from the forest, fish from the waters and corn and beans from the earth, but fire they themselves must learn to make.

Even with all the gifts they had showered upon them they were not happy, but kept thinking all the time of the one thing which they still wanted, instead of enjoying the many gifts which were already theirs. All fire was then in the sun, and they could think of no way to get it. Men could not reach it in any way, and no bird cared to go after it.

Finally the swallows, who could fly more swiftly than any of the other birds, offered to go to the sun so far away and bring this gift to men.

The swallow's back is still black, but no one ever tried to get fire from the sun again that way. Long years afterward men learned how to make fire by rubbing sticks together.

LOCAL HIGH WILL HAVE BUSY WEEK

Tonight in the local gymnasium the local high's basket ball team will contest with the Washington High School Five. This game will be the revival of athletic associations between the two schools no games being staged last season. This game is one of the County League contests. As neither teams have met during the past season the game assures itself of being a fast and aggressive one. The game is called for 8:15 and will be preceded by a preliminary at 7:15 staging the local Pershing Club and the Monongahela City Boy Scouts.

On next Thursday evening the locals will journey to Homestead. This will be the first time in the history of the local high's athletics that they have played Homestead. As Homestead was one of the schools that gave Monessen two of the hottest games this year thereby showing their strength, this, game also assures the public of being a hard game. On next Saturday night one of the best and hardest games of the season will be staged in the local gym when Charleroi will play their second game of the season with Rochester. The locals were defeated by Rochester on Jan. 10th by the score of 22 to 23. The locals expect to redeem themselves next Saturday night, Feb. 22nd. The management is expecting a record breaking crowd at this contest.

ELLSWORTH MAN NOT GUILTY OF MURDER

Paul Kalesson, of Ellsworth, charged with the murder of Andy Danko, at Ellsworth last July 11th was acquitted in the Washington county courts on Thursday. The case went to the jury shortly before noon and they returned a verdict at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. A feature of the case was, that the defense had no witnesses and cross examined but one witness of the prosecution the chemist, who made an examination of the stains on the hatchet used by the murdered. There was no direct evidence against Kalesson, all of the testimony being of a circumstantial character.

PREFERRED COW TO WIFE AND BABY

Jim Farley, colored, of Ellsworth, has a high opinion of good cows; in fact Jim would go to extremes to bethe possessor of such an animal, or at least he said so in court at Washington on Friday.

Jim had made a charge of forgery against Thomas Ross also colored, because Ross had taken Farley's cow and sold her to a butcher. He got a check for the amount, the check, being madein the name of Farley, which Ross forged evidently for the purpose of having it cashed. Then Ross, after securing the money, ran away with Farley's wife, who took along her baby. Ross entered a plea of guilty before Judge Brownson on Friday, who sentenced him to pay the costs, a fine of $1 and spend six months in jail from date of December 3rd last.

Farley was very much put out because he was not to receive any recompense for his cow, which led him to say "He could have my wife and baby if he had just left me that cow; I did hate to lose that cow, for she was a good one. You can get another wife any time ,but good cows are scarce."

Under a new ruling by the War Department American girls may marry American soldiers on the Rhine by mail. Presumably those who risk their marriage vows by letter will not neglect to register or insure them.

HORNBAKE ARRESTS ALLEGED THIEVES

Deputy Sheriff George Hornbake had an exciting chase after alleged automobile thieves on Wednesday evening finally coming up with the men wanted a short distance outside of Wheeling. The men were Hollister Barger and Bryan Hand both of whom were brought back to Washington together with the car and lodged in jail.

The men are charged with stealing a Ford automobile belonging to George Grimes, near Malden on the National Pike east of Centerville. Deputy Sheriff Hornbake took the warrants and started after them Wednesday afternoon, after hearing that they were headed out the national pike on the way west. As Hornbake, reached the foot of the long hill between Fulton and Wheeling he found them fixing the tail lights on the Ford and changing the Pennsylvania for a West Virginia license. It appears they had reached Wheeling earlier in the day and after spending some time in riding about the city, came back as far at Elm Grove. They then started to return to Wheeling when they were overhauled by the officer from Washington county and taken into custody.

FOLK SONGS FEATURE CHURCH RECEPTION

The Ladies' Aid Society of the First Presbyterian Church tendered a reception to the members of the congregation and friends in the church auditorium last evening, which was well attended. The following program was much enjoyed: Piano solo, Miss Sara Might; paper, "First Presbyterian Church Record," Miss Edith Woodhall; Folk-songs, "Come Back to Erin," Mrs. Earl Nicholson; "The Laird o' Cock Pen," W. C. Clark; "Ben Bolt," Miss Emma Clutter; "Le Marseillaise." (sung in French) Miss Catherine Mahied; "Why Must We Part," (sung in Italian) Miss Anna and Master Joe Territo. The program concluded with "The Star Spangled Banner." sung by Mary Elizabeth Daniel. Jeannette Toner, Marguerite Beaver and Margaret Hosnick with Kenneth Showers as standard bearer. Refreshments were served and all voted the evening a most pleasant and profitable one.

RULER HAS ABSOLUTE SWAY

Mongol Monarch Is Also Official Head of a Religion, Though Little Known to the World.

The most absolute monarch in the world is the least known. He rules in Urga. It is the capital of Mongolia, and the potentate is at the same time the official head of a religion. He is, in fact, the Mongol pope.

Urga is to some extent a modern town, having many Chinese and Russian inhabitants; but the native portion of it bears no resemblance to anything that can be found anywhere else on earth. For this Mongol part of the city is movable and constantly changes its location and arrangement.

The Mongol houses are hemispherical huts of felt cloth extended over a light structure of latticework. They are readily collapsible, and can be put up or taken down at a few minutes' notice Felt cloth being an excellent insulator, they afford a warm and weatherproof shelter during winters of extreme cold.

There are at Urga, however, a number of large monasteries It is the holy city of the Mongols. The priests (called "lamas") are numbered by hundreds of thousands, and their "lamaseries" are scattered all over the country.

The business of the lamas is to drive away the devils which, but for their pious activity, would soon destroy all the people. At intervals they give great outdoor exhibitions of a quasi-theatrical character, in which hundreds of lamas take part, dancing in grotesque masks and fantastic costumes to music furnished by drums, huge copper trumpets and flutes made from the thighbones of virgins—the last named horrible instruments emitting blood-curdling and mournful wails.

NOTED MEN NAMED WILLIAM

Long List of Those Who Attained the Front Rank as Writers, Poets and Statesmen.

There have been more famous Williams than men of any other name, and the majority of these Williams have been writers, poets and statesmen, but rarely musicians, for William is evidently nof a musical name.

The list of poets is a long one: William Shakespeare, the greatest English writer; William Cowper, the English poet who wrote "On Receipt of My Mother's Picture:" William Wordsworth, the English poet, who wrote "Lucy Grey:" William Blake, who wrote "The Marriage of Hell and Heaven;" William Collins, the English writer; William Morris, the pre-Raphaelite, who began life as a designer, invented the morris chair and translated several volumes from the Icelandic William Allingham, the Irish poet, who wrote "Lovely Mary Donnelly;" William Yeats, the Irish playwright, and the American poet, William Cullen Bryant who wrote "Lines to a Water Fowl."

Besides these poets we have the prose writers: William Makepeace Thackeray, England's second greatest novelist, and who wrote "Vanity Fair;" William Rossetti, brother of Dante Gabriel Rossetti, and the great art critic: William Dean Howells, the American novelist: William Hall Caine, the novelist known as Hall Caine, and William Sharp, the Irish writer, who wrote under the name of Fiona Macleod.

Bernhardt and Rostand.

Mme. Bernhardt's admiration for Edmond Rostand was due in part at least to natural human gratitude When once a guest of the great actress at Belle Isle, her lonely island home near Quiberon, the distinguished dramatist had rescued her from drowning. But apart from this she always swore by him. I have heard her rhapsodize in terms that seemed extravagant about his genius. He was to her the beginning and end of that form of the drama in which she had excelled as an interpreter. She loved him as a reaction visible against realism, as a protest against Ibsen and a renewer of the flamboyant in art. Yet who can doubt that when Rostand is forgotten men will know Ibsen? The romantic episode at Belle Isle merely strengthened Mme. Bernhardt's profound and touching faith in this follower of Hugo.—Exchange.

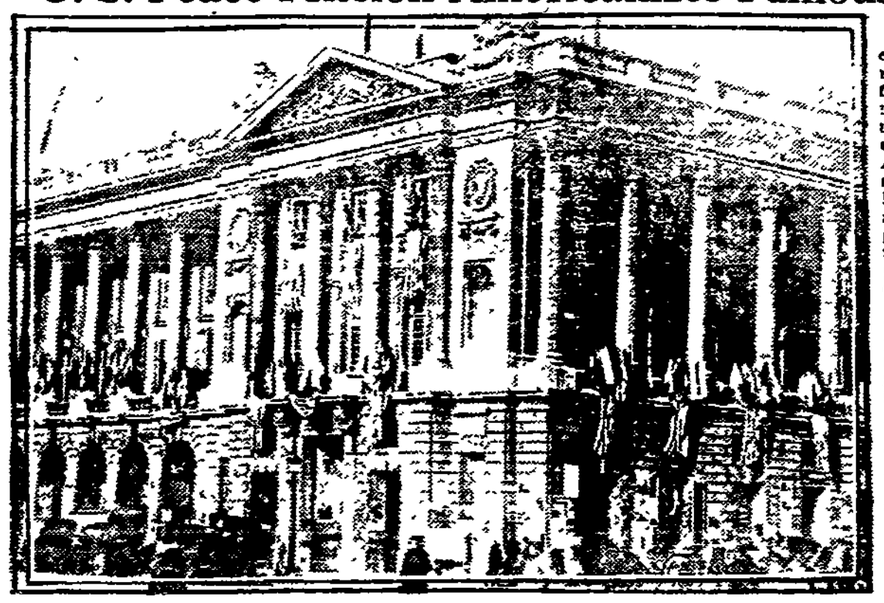
If there's any one thing that marks the big man it is his ability to get down to business. While the average fellow sits drumming at his desk the man of skill starts things. There may be a thousand things to do, but they will be done sooner if they are done one at a time. It's a fine thing to be able at a glance to spot the essential and go at it. The next best thing is to get busy at the job that seems to be most urgent and put that on the shelf a finished product. You are then ready for the next thing. But it's just the lack of this ability that puts the sprags in most men's progress. They are confused by the many things to be done. Instead of getting busy at once they waste time in wondering where to begin. It's no wonder they fail to accomplish things.

Too Limited a Route.

"Would you object to marrying a traveling man?"

"Not if he travels far enough," replied Miss Cayenne. "I couldn't care for one of these chaps who puts in all his time traveling between here and Baltimore."

U. S. Peace Mission Americanizes Famous Hotel



As the American army made itself felt in the field and proved the one big factor in winning the war, so American diplomats are making Europe and the allies feel the power of this nation in the great peace conference Here is a Paris structure which the mere personality of the Yank delegation has Americanized by its presence. It is the Hotel de Grillon and Carslin, Place de la Concord, where all American peace mission members except President Wilson are stopping.

One Way to Advertise.

Some years ago a New York firm manufacturing paper water cups got on its legs because of laws in New York and New Jersey prohibiting use of public drinking cups. The firm distributed its wares by messenger and wagon. Money came rolling in. Then came the automobile era, and this firm bought a number of delivery trucks to expedite its growing business. The war came, and it didn't stop the drinking of water and the chance of germs. The influenza epidemic, in fact, was a boon for the paper cup manufacturer. It is noted that this manufacturer is now sending five-ton trucks around the city with his wares A cargo of paper cups cannot weigh more than 200 pounds, but it looks well on a five-ton giant. There may be a waste of energy, but it pays to advertise and, above all, it pays to advertise properly.—Wall Street Journal.

Music.

Music is the crystallization of sound. There is something in the effect of a harmonious voice upon the disposition of its neighborhood analogous to the law of crystals. It centralizes itself and sounds like the published law of things. If the law of the universe were to be audibly promulgated no mortal law giver would suspect it, for it would be a finer melody than his ears ever attended to. It would be sphere music

When I hear music I feel no danger I am invincible I see no foe. I am related to the earliest times and to the latest.—Thoreau.

Age of Achievement.

Surely then there is a place for the middle aged, even for the older worker. If most of the eminent men in the world had actually died at forty, leaving out only a few soldiers and a few lyric poets like Keats and Shelley, or even if they had died at fifty or sixty, the world would be a sorry, barbaric place, indeed For it is hardly necessary to say that no end of actual consolations have been made of the age of achievement, and they always hit an average of fifty. This is true in both peace and war. Dr. W. A. N. Dorland some years ago studied the careers of 100 of the world's most eminent men in every line and found that the average at which mental activity began was twenty-four, and that the masterpieces of work, whether books, battles, poems, inventions, discoveries or business ventures, came at the average of fifty, ranging for various groups from forty-one to fifty-eight.—Albert W. Atwood in Saturday Evening Post.

Things He Will Not Part With.

W. H. Hudson, who has had for twenty years a kind of esoteric reputation as a naturalist, says of himself in a recent biography: "I can only say of myself with regard to this primitive faculty and emotion—this sense of the supernatural in natural things, as I have called it—that I am on safe ground, as the feeling has never been outlived. And, I will add, probably to the disgust of some rigidly orthodox reader that these are childish things which I have no desire to put away."

Does the Horse Lie Down?

One occasionally sees the statement that horses seldom if ever lie down, says Dumb Animals. That there are horses whose caretakers have never seen them resting in that way we do not question, because we have heard it from stablemen who have carefully observed them But no one who knows anything about horses and who has seen them stretched out at full length in pastures and in their stalls, and who has noticed the unmistakable evidences on the horses themselves in the morning of having lain down, will credit the assertion. Many a horse is doubtless too sensible to lie down on a rough, filthy, unbedded floor, but give him a comfortable, well-bedded stall, and not only will he lie down but repay his owner with better service and more years of usefulness because of the more perfect rest thus obtained.

In the Days of David Garrick.

There were no "stalls" in the theaters in the days of David Garrick, and young men of rank and fashion frequented them. When Garrick returned from his absence abroad people were eager to see him, and Sir George Beaumont and several others used to get admission to the pit before the doors were opened to the public by means of bribing the attendants, who bade them be sure, as soon as the crowd rushed in, to pretend to be in a great heat, and to wipe their faces" as if they had just been struggling for entrance For in those days the suspicion of such favoritism would have caused a riot among the pittites.

Paper Horseshoes.

An inventor proposes to make a paper horseshoe that shall for general purposes be the equal of the steel horseshoe, in the following way: Parchment paper is cut out in horseshoe form and built up to a suitable thickness by the use of a mixture of turpentine, Spanish white shellac, and linseed oil treated with litharge, and the whole is placed under the hydraulic press. This produces very light and uniform pieces, and it is an easy matter to stamp out the nail holes and grooves Instead of nailing to the horse's hoof, they can be applied with an adhesive composition. Paper paste could also be molded into the shape of a horseshoe by use of the press, but the result is not quite so satisfactory. The surface is too even and slippery, and the shoe will not hold well on the ground.

Valuable Scrapbook.

What is probably the most valuable—and certainly the most interesting—scrapbook in the United States is a large but very ordinary appearing volume owned by the government and kept by the official in charge of the safe at the treasury department in Washington. This scrapbook contains specimens of every kind of paper money issued by the United States government since 1865, and the face value alone of the notes pasted in the book is $76,000. Inasmuch as many of the notes are now obsolete, while others have a considerable historic value, the scrapbook would undoubtedly bring in the neighborhood of $150,000 if it were put up at auction.

Great Painter's Sad Fate.

Titian, the Italian painter, died at the age of ninety-nine, a victim to a malignant pestilence which was raging in Italy. He worked up to the last and it is said that his eye and hand were still his obedient servants. When he was aged ninety-six we read of Titian still receiving royal visitors and superintending the labors of his pupils. He was at work on his last picture, "The Christ of Pity," when he was struck by the plague. This work was finished by another. There is no record that Titian lived by any rules of health; he just happened to be blessed with a strong constitution, that was all.

Great Is Power of Love.

If you would gain mankind, the best way is to appear to love them; and the best way of appearing to love them is to love them in reality.—J. Bentham.

Responsibility.

If we are not responsible for the thoughts that pass our doors, we are at least responsible for those we admit and entertain.—Charles B. Newcomb.
